

UTAH SYMPHONY

June 3, 1997

RE: MARGO WATSON

To Whom It May Concern:

It is my pleasure to endorse Margo Watson as very talented soprano. Ms. Watson resides in Salt Lake City, Utah and is quite visible on the local performing scene. She is one of our fine singers in the city. She has appeared on numerous occasions with the Utah Symphony under the baton of Music Director Joseph Silverstein, former Associate Conductor Robert Henderson and Edgar Thompson, Director of the Utah Symphony Chorus. She has earned excellent notices from our Deseret News and Salt Lake Tribune critics. Margo's repertoire is far reaching. Whether she is singing Samuel Barber, "Messiah" or Broadway her flexible vocal style serves the music that she is singing.

I am sure that you will not be disappointed with the performance of Margo Watson. Don't file away her materials. She should receive your every consideration as you schedule up-coming performances. Her successes with the Utah Symphony dictate re-engagement. You will also find that with her singing and exciting stage presence, you will be looking for an opportunity to do the same!

I highly recommend her and will be delighted to speak with you further about our "local" star.

Sincerely,

Cecil S. Cole
Orchestra Manager

Joseph Silverstein
Music Director

Harris H. Simmons
Chairman

Donald L. Andrews
President / CEO